Team Cymru launches Training Practice

IT Security training for police and ISPs in Developing Regions.

Burr Ridge, IL – November 25th 2010 - A Chicago based IT Security Research company today launched a new service that will boost police and industry capabilities to protect Internet users worldwide.

The initiative will provide training to combat malicious activity on the Internet, focused initially on Africa, the Middle East, South America and Asia. In most situations, the training can be offered at cost levels that will fit with local budgets.

Fifteen courses are offered, ranging from Investigative Processes and Network Forensics through to Making IPv6 Secure and Operational DNS Security and classes are already planned for Cambodia, Sri-Lanka, Hong Kong, Papua New Guinea, Israel and France.

More information and an interview with the manager of the Training Practice can be found at <https://www.team-cymru.com/Services/Training/>. Potential students, hosts and sponsors can e-mail training@cymru.com.
